

I enjoy reading blogs as well as writing them. My course taught me the importance of use of digital technology and sharing information through different platforms. As well as having my personal Blog I also have my You tube account, Twitter, Instagram and Facebook account. I am fully aware of the importance of technology in modern society and the speed and power of information reached through digital platforms.

My dream job would be to work in the PR and Marketing industry. I understand that it is a very competitive industry but with my desire to succeed and valuable skills that I will learn at University I am looking forward to pursuing a career in this industry and believe that University is the best step forward for me to achieving this.
